evaluating the effect of metal ions on the nucleic acid molecule based on the thermal change of the polymer solution. A novel method has been developed for detecting the effect of metal ions on the nucleic acid molecule based on the thermal change of the polymer solution. This method can accurately quantify the influence of metal ions on the thermal stability of the polymer, and it is rapid and simple. In addition, this method is applicable to nucleic acid molecules with
